

IMPROVING TRACK SERVICE

Atlanta, Ga., June 19.—The Southern Railway is now making extensive improvements on the Knoxville division between Knoxville and Chattanooga and between Asheville and Morristown, involving the construction of ten passing tracks.

Work on the additional trackage has already commenced and will be completed at an early date giving this important line greatly increased facilities for handling both freight and passenger trains.

Eight of these passing tracks, which are known as interlocked lap sidings, are being constructed on the line between Knoxville and Chattanooga and two between Asheville and Morristown.

With double track existing between Morristown and Knoxville and from Chattanooga out to Oltewah, these trackage improvements will give the Knoxville division much faster service and insure greater safety as well as provide for increased business hoped for in the future.

SAVED OVER 100 PASSENGERS

Miraculous Escape of Southern Ry. Patrons Due to Bravery of Engineer Howland.

Memphis, Tenn., June 18.—More than a hundred passengers aboard the Memphis-New York fast Southern train owe their lives to the bravery of Engineer L. D. Howland, who stuck to his post and brought the train to a stop when going at the rate of thirty miles an hour when train ran into an open switch eight miles east of Memphis at 8:40 o'clock tonight. Engineer Howland was slightly injured only. The passengers with the exception of minor bruises escaped unhurt.

The engine and tender were almost completely wrecked and four cars left the track which was torn up for several hundred yards. Suspicion is entertained that the switch had been tampered with.

The Cause of Constipation

Constipation is, in some cases, the direct result from a torpid or slow acting liver, brought about by the withholding of the flow of bile. This condition is commonly allied with more or less indigestion and dyspepsia partly due to the constipation itself.

Many persons have found it comparatively easy to overcome such conditions with a treatment of Rexall Liver Salts.

In our judgment we feel that this preparation is remarkably well fitted to overcome these conditions, and recommend them to you with the understanding that any money you have spent with us for the preparation will be refunded in case there are no beneficial results.

HUMAN BODIES IN WRECK OF MAINE

Havana, June 19.—With the first discovery this morning of some human fragments, the work of exploring the hull of the Maine for the primary purpose of recovering and giving honorable sepulchre to the bodies of her crew was at last begun after many months of preliminary work.

While workmen were clearing the spar deck between the after and engine room superstructure, they found bones of a right foot enclosed in the ragged remnant of a shoe and nearby the bones of a forearm, the hands being missing. Soon after this they came upon the bones of another forearm. All were blackened, possibly from fire, and deeply encrusted with a coral growth.

Great Bargains In Shoes

My stock of shoes and slippers is the largest and most complete I have ever shown.

During the past week I have put on sale a large shipment of sample shoes from Arnold, Henegar and Doyle of Knoxville.

They are in excellent condition—every pair made for the 1911 season, and they come in most of the popular sizes.

Prices—not much more than half you are charged in some of the stores. This is not an exaggeration—it's facts.

I get the samples at a discount of 25%—sometimes 30%. This enables me to sell them at wholesale prices and make a good profit.

Those who are familiar with the shoe business know that Sample Shoes are BETTER IN EVERY WAY than the regular stock. When you have the privilege of buying them cheaper and getting better good, too, you ought to buy here, oughtn't you?

Come and test our claims. You are not fair to this store nor to your own interests if you pass judgment on us from hearing only the evidence of our competitors.

TELLS OF WORK OF HOUNDS IN FOLLOWING TRAIL OF ROBBER

Mr. J. W. Seabock, trainer of thoroughbred English Blood-hounds, gives a very interesting account of the trail of the post office robbers two weeks ago. It is as follows:

"On the morning of June 8 we were called at 2 a. m. to bring some blood-hounds to the post office as the safe had been blown. We were on the scene a short time afterwards. The dogs were put on the scent at the safe and after searching every part of the building, they went out through the window where the robbers had gained an entrance. They took to the trail at once and followed it in a Southern direction for about one-half mile, then came around back very close to the office, holding the trail by the passenger depot, then crossing the Newport bridge ran North about one mile, turning back coming down the Pigeon river to the bridge again, then when in town turning East on sidewalk going to the Cates hotel. The hounds searched the doornstairs hall and then went upstairs through the hall and came down stairs and followed the trail through the hall and out the front door to the Southern Railway. They followed this trail through Eastport and to the cut about two miles and a half. The old dog beyed something on the side of the ditch and I was about 50 yards behind. When I came up I saw something lying in the ditch which looked like a handkerchief, but when I picked it up I found that it had been used for a face mask. I also found a small number of stamps trampled in the mud. I then began to look for tracks and found four different ones. There seemed to be two men wearing No. 6 shoes; one something like a No. 8 shoe and one evidently wearing a No. 10. The man wearing the No. 8 had run down the right side of the heel.

In my judgment the men swung a freight train at this point, as the dogs could go no further. Three men and one darkey came into port on the night of the robbery there is not much doubt but that they are the guilty parties. There is no doubt but what they were aided by home talent. The way of the fact that part of the tool taken from a local blacksmith would show that they knew of the land. If anyone wishes what I found on the railroad seen at George Allen's board. The officers of Newport are in their power to locate the aid in catching men of this object in waiting as long as before making this report we fact that I thought some turn up to lead to the guilty parties. I am in men will soon be brought. J. W. SEABOCK.
